»» Literacy

The literacy section provides exercises to learn reading, writing and arithmetic. All exercises for functional adult illiterates are audio-supported. The reading and writing exercises are connected with the arithmetic exercises by means of scenario-based tasks.

Interactive exercises provide the learners with learning strategies and competencies to organize everyday life. Additionally this section provides exercises for basic economic education.

»» The DVV Learning Portal

ich-will-lernen.de ("I want to learn") is Germany's biggest open learning portal. It provides free learning materials to increase the users' literacy skills and basic education and offers exercises to promote the learners' employability and ability to obtain a school leaving certificate. Since 2004, it has been used by more than 250.000 learners.

The learning portal is suitable for beginners as well as advanced beginners. The interactive exercises are compiled individually for each learner. Users can register anonymously online and are guided by online tutors.

Institutions for adult education can use the portal as a blended learning instrument and set up online courses to support their own classes.

»» Employability and school leaving certificate

The section focussing on employability and the ability to obtain a school leaving certificate offers exercises in German, Maths, and English. The offer is complemented by exercises on occupation-related skills. The materials are a cross section of subject matter relevant for users preparing to obtain a school leaving certificate.

The exercises can be used to accompany a course, while learners acquiring basic education in an extracurricular environment can access them independently.

Exercises on basic work skills train learners in the areas of conflict handling skills, work organisation and prepare them for the job application process.
